The bloodiest battle of the Mediterranean war since Salerno raged unabated today after rain-sodden troops of the Fifth Army crushed desperate Nazi resistance and seized three more strongly-fortified heights in the Camino-Maggiore mountain defenses of the German Winter line.

Both the Fifth and Eighth armies scored advances in the face of desperate Nazi resistance. The Fifth Army beat down a particularly furious German counter-attack in the Mignano area and plunged forward to occupy the new height positions.

Hun Attack Balked
Beating down a furious Nazi counter-attack west of Venafro, Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's troops seized new height positions before the town of Mignano and mopped up nests of resistance on previously captured peaks.

The new gains, threatening to undermine the western half of the German line shielding Rome, gave the Fifth Army five commanding positions overlooking the Liri river valley. The heights were seized after Clark's men rammed a deep salient into the most powerful fortifications yet encountered in Italy.

American invader fighter-bombers, it was revealed, dropped emergency rations to troops on Mount Maggiore, where the terrain is so rough that even mules are inadequate.

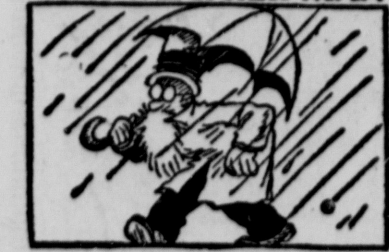

On the Adriatic front, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British Eighth Army pushed forward along the coast to reach the rain-swollen Moro river, along which Nazi forces dug in after retreating from the Sangro. Nazi forces facing the Eighth Army have been reinforced, and heavy fighting is taking place, Allied headquarters announced.

The reinforcements included an additional regiment of armored troops.

The Moro river lies 10 miles above the Sangro river.

(Special To The Herald)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Sheriff W. H. Icenhower is not a gambling man, or today he would owe James W. Collett, Clinton county farmer and confessed murderer of Elmer McCoy, his brother-in-law, $1,000.

Collett offered last week, after admitting the Thanksgiving eve murder of McCoy, to bet the sheriff $1,000 that the death guns would not be found on the Collett farm near Kingman.

The greater part of two days has been devoted by the sheriff and other investigators to a search for the murder weapons, and all of that time has been spent on the Collett farm. No trace has been found of the gun, or guns, authorities saying two revolvers were used in the triple murder.

Collett, while admitting the McCoy murder, denies knowledge of how McCoy's wife and their daughter, Mildred, 22, met death. Sheriff Icenhower and Prosecutor John B. Hill insist that Collett killed all three.

The confessed slayer laid the groundwork Saturday for a fight against the death penalty with use (Continued on Page Two)

CAIRO, Dec. 6.—President Roosevelt, it was revealed today, told American troops in Iran that his conference with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin had a two-fold purpose—winning the war as quickly as possible and laying the groundwork for a lasting peace.

The President addressed army officers and men at U. S. Persian gulf command headquarters at Camp Amirabad, a few miles outside of Teheran, Thursday morning at the conclusion of the momentous big three conferences. After reviewing the assembled troops, President Roosevelt addressed sick soldiers at the camp's hospital.

Sleep At Camp

The President and his party or military and diplomatic advisers motored to Camp Amirabad late Wednesday night after leaving Premier Stalin. They slept in cottages at the camp as guests of Maj. Gen. Donald Connelly, commander of U. S. forces in the Persian gulf theatre.

Riding in a jeep to the camp's parade grounds, the President reviewed the troops Thursday morning and told them the people of America are aware of the important task they are accomplishing in keeping the supply route to Russia open.

President Roosevelt said the four-day Teheran conference had a two-fold purpose: "First," he said, "to lay military plans for cooperation between our three nations looking toward winning the war just as fast as we possibly can. I think we have made progress toward that end."

Plan for Peace

"The other purpose was to talk over world conditions after the war—to try to plan a world for us and our children in which war ceases to be a necessity. We have made great progress in that also."

"But," he warned, "the first thing is to win the war."

Paying tribute to the men standing beside him, the President declared:

THREE TEEN AGE BOYS HELD FOR 14 AUTO THEFTS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 6.—The Curtis-Wright protection force today was holding three teen-age boys for the F. B. I. after the youths confessed thefts of 14 automobiles from parking lots at the plane plant in the last month.

Chief Ray T. Sommers of the plant's protection force said one of the three formerly was employed at the plant. Arrested at his home yesterday morning, the youth implicated two companions and the three of them confessed the thefts and also pilfering 10 other cars on the lot.

According to Sommers, the F. B. I. will hold the boys for federal prosecution on charges of stealing from government property and transporting stolen cars across the state line.

The boys admitted taking the cars for joy rides, driving them off the lots during shift change time. One of the cars was abandoned in Charleston, W. Va., and another in Franklin, Pa., Sommers said.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox expressed the opinion today that the Japanese evacuation of Kiska "opened up a possible invasion route of Japan proper through the shorter spaces of the Northwest Pacific."

In a review of two years of war Knox also stated that two other major Pacific invasion routes now are also open: Through Honolulu straight across to Japan and from the Southwest Pacific.

The statements were made by the secretary in an article written by him for the Army and Navy Journal, a service publication.

Knox warned, however, that the third year of war might produce "some of the heaviest naval fighting this war has yet seen, for many elements of the Jap fleet have not yet been action."

CAIRO, Dec. 6.—Here is the full text of the declaration signed by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at the close of their Teheran conference:

"A declaration of the three powers:

"We, the President of the United States, the Prime Minister of Great Britain and the Premier of the Soviet Union, have met these four days past in this capital of our Ally, Iran, and have shaped and confirmed our common policy.

"We expressed our determination that our nations shall work together in the war and in the peace that follows.

"As to the war, our military staffs have joined our roundtable discussions and we have concerted our plans for the destruction of the German forces. We have reached complete agreement as to the scope and timing of operations which will be undertaken from the East, the West and the South.

"The common understanding which we here reached guarantees that victory will be ours.

"As to the peace, we are sure that our concord will make it an enduring peace. We recognize fully the supreme responsibility resting on us and all of the United Nations to make a peace which will command the good will of the overwhelming masses of the people of the world and banish the scourge and terror of war for many generations.

"With our diplomatic advisers we have surveyed the problems of the future. We shall seek the cooperation and active participation of all nations, large and small, whose peoples in heart and in mind are dedicated, as are our own peoples, to the elimination of tyranny, slavery, oppression and intolerance. We will welcome them as they may choose to come into the world family of democratic nations.

"No power on earth can prevent our destroying the German armies by land, their U-boats by sea and their war plants from the air. . . our attacks will be relentless and increasing.

"From these friendly conferences we look with confidence to the day when all the peoples of the world may live free and untouched by tyranny, according to their varying desires and own consciences.

"We came here with hope and determination. We leave here friends in fact, in spirit and in purpose.

Allied Conference Plans To Banish Battle Scourge For Many Generations

CAIRO, Dec. 6.—A full-scale invasion across the English channel by American and British armies to strike a death blow at Hitlerism was disclosed today as the chief pledge given to Marshal Joseph Stalin by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill in an epoch-making conference at Teheran.

The historic four-day conference which followed a meeting in Cairo that brought Mr. Roosevelt and Premier Churchill together with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek of China gave the Soviet premier what he has been demanding for the last two years—the opening of a second front in western Europe to insure that the armies of Nazi Germany will be ground to blood and dust beneath an Allied pincer.

Highlights of Parley

Highlights of the dramatic session which for the first time brought the Anglo-American leaders face to face with the political and diplomatic chieftain of the Soviet Union follow:

1.—The United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia have now laid full plans for prosecution of the war and administration of the peace that comes afterward in a manner that will "banish the scourge and terror of war for many generations."

2.—Nazi Germany will be attacked "from the East, the West and the South" so that within the earliest possible time the tyrannical military machine created by Adolf Hitler will be destroyed utterly and in its entirety.

3.—The Reich's sole alternative to complete destruction will be for the German people to throw the Nazi regime out of office and sue for immediate and unconditional surrender.

4.—The satellite nations of Nazi Germany, absorbed into the European new order by the willful deception or guilelessness of their leaders were offered an opportunity to save themselves before it is too late. They will be welcome if they "choose to come into the world family of Democratic nations."

5.—Complete agreement was reached among the leaders of the three nations as to the scope and timing of the monumental blows planned against Germany, and the attacks to be made will be "relentless and increasing."

Marshal Stalin returned to Moscow from his first visit outside the Soviet Union in 31 years and from his initial meeting with President Roosevelt entirely successful in his demand that the Anglo-American armies bridge the English channel and assault the German legions from the West.

All else was secondary in the minds of Stalin and the delegation which accompanied him to the an- (Continued on Page Two)

Stalin Gets Pledge

The Soviet marshal and his war commissar, Klementi Voroshilov, came to the historic meeting ready to pledge an uninterrupted offensive against the Germans from the East. In acknowledgement, President Roosevelt and Britain's prime minister gave a written guarantee that the common enemy of mankind would be attacked with commensurate strength from the British Isles.

With the Soviet embassy in Tehran chosen as the meeting place, the four-day session opened on Sunday, November 28, and closed on Wednesday, December 1. It was not until the leading conferees had departed for their respective capitals that a communique was issued in Cairo telling of it and confirming the announcement first made by the official Tass news agency in Moscow that the junction of minds, power, prestige and "crush Hitler" planning had occurred.

Of utmost significance was the implied bid to the smaller satellite nations of Europe to throw over the Hitler yoke and join with the Democracies. Popular movements against the Nazi regime will be welcomed, the official statement pointed out, but there was no specific announcement with regard to future of the Baltic states and Finland.

Russ Delighted

Diplomatic authorities responsible for circulating news of the conference — the announcement having been withheld for six days for security reasons — made it clear that Stalin and Voroshilov, as well as Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov, who accompanied them, were delighted with the outcome of the deliberations.

There was a fairly clear indication that the idea of a "cordon sanitaire" around defeated Germany — a proposal rejected by Moscow — had been dropped as unfeasible. In return, Stalin was believed to have promised fuller and more open participation in the principles of the Atlantic charter and agreed to a "hands off" policy in strictly European, British and American domestic affairs.

One striking aspect of the meeting was the absence of any Red Army leaders save Voroshilov, which was interpreted as conclusive indication that so far as its own task in the war is concerned, the Soviet union believes it is fulfilling all obligations by tying down a couple of hundred German divisions in White Russia and the Ukraine.

Russia therefore will continue to do just what she has been doing, although there is a chance of even intensified pressure against the borders of the Reich the moment the British and American armies, air forces and navies strike in coordinated blows from the British Isles and the Mediterranean.

The Tehran decisions were described as removing any left-over apprehensions in Stalin's mind that the Anglo-American conception of a "second front" is limited to air attacks on Germany and isolated attacks against scattered regions instead of a direct assault against the Nazi army from the West.

Consensus of responsible opinion was that President Roosevelt and Churchill had satisfied Stalin that the plans drafted and envisaged by Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall and Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the British imperial general staff provide for sufficiently large-scale assaults against Fortress Europe to engage the Nazi forces on two major European battlefronts.

At the same time, the invasion of the European mainland from the Mediterranean will continue, confronting Hitler with the necessity of meeting a three-pronged onslaught to be carried out under massive aerial umbrella.

On that basis, Stalin is believed to have accepted the Anglo-American time-table without reservation. In brief, the conference crossed the T's and dotted the I's of meticulous plans to launch a knockout offensive against the Reich the moment every man, gun, ship and plane has been assembled under the most favorable reasonable conditions to ensure victory.

A "streamlined blueprint of colossal new blows against Germany" was one of the terms used in description of the consultations. No word of Japan found mention in the communique, for that em-

ARMY ABANDONS ALL HOPE FOR F. C. SUTHERLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sutherland of Yellowbud have been informed by the Navy department that all hope of finding their son, Seaman Second Class Fred Cecil Sutherland, alive has been abandoned. He has now been declared dead.

The sailor was reported a year ago to be missing in action.

Young Sutherland was a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Hugh L. Scott when that vessel was torpedoed and sunk by the enemy while participating in amphibious operations in the North African area December 12, 1942. With a calm sea to help rescue efforts and no record of prisoners having been taken, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox wrote the Sutherlands "I am reluctantly forced to the conclusion that your son is deceased."

The youth was only 17 years old when he enlisted in Chillicothe January 14, 1942. He went to sea a few months later. A brother, Clifford, now 17, is also in the navy, and another brother, Charles, was recently given a medical discharge from the army.

ELKS HEAR TALK BY MINISTER AT ANNUAL SERVICE

The Rev. Clarence Swearingen of the Methodist church offered an excellent address Sunday afternoon when Circleville Elks conducted their annual memorial service.

The address was the highlight of the Lodge of Sorrow which also included ritualistic work conducted by lodge officers under direction of Exalted Ruler O. J. Towlers and music by the Elks quartet comprised of Carl C. Leist, Melvin A. Yates, Barton Deming and E. C. Ebert, with Hunter Chambers as accompanist.

A large audience participated in the service.

ple's fate had been decided at the Roosevelt-Churchill-Chiang Kai-Shek meeting in Cairo, when the three powers pledged themselves to destroy Nippon and wrest from her every square mile of overseas territory conquered or absorbed since 1895.

As against the Cairo meeting, however, the Tehran conference did not stipulate exactly what will be done with Germany after Hitler's defeat. It was obvious that decision had been reached to restore democratic sovereignty to the small nations sucked into the vortex of Nazism, but no outright threat of German dismemberment was made in the official declaration.

Sixty-four year old Stalin, who upset all his own precedents and made history by crossing the frontier of the Soviet Union to visit an alien land, was described as "the life of the party." He toasted President Roosevelt as "my fighting friend" at a dinner party last Tuesday night on Churchill's 69th birthday.

Churchill, in return toasted the Soviet leader as "Stalin the great." This interchange followed a dramatic ceremony in the conference room of the embassy on Monday afternoon during which the British leader presented Stalin with a jeweled sword of honor, ordered forged by King George VI as a tribute to the heroic population of Stalingrad from the British people.

As in the case of Cairo, the retinues which accompanied Roosevelt and Churchill were predominantly military in nature. The United States delegation included Gen. Marshall; Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. army air forces; Lieut. Gen. Brenton B. Somervell, chief of the army services of supply; Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet and Admiral William Leahy, President Roosevelt's personal chief of staff.

The British military chieftains included Gen. Brooke; Field Marshal Sir John Dill, a member of the combined Allied chiefs of staff in Washington, Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal, chief of the Royal Air Force and Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay, personal chief of staff to Prime Minister Churchill.

Stalin acted as his own staff chief inasmuch as he is supreme commander of all Soviet armed forces, commissar for defense and chairman of the national defense council.

RAIN SODDEN TROOPS CRUSH HUN RESISTANCE

Capture Of Three Strongly Fortified Heights Severe Blow To Germans

Loyal bombarded the road between Pescara and Giulianova Thursday and then pounded Ancona and San Benedetto. Three coastal craft were sunk and two others damaged. Meantime two other British destroyers sank a small merchant vessel east of Pescara.

Hitler's White Russian army was reported fleeing across the Dnieper river near Zlobin, putting up a bitter rear-guard resistance just north of the vital rail junction in an effort to hold converging Russian columns at bay. The main body of the Nazi army routed at Gomel, according to front dispatches, is streaming across a 15-mile-wide bridgehead, forced to flee the right bank by a Soviet push to the Dnieper just above Zlobin, which straddles the Gomel-Minsk railroad.

At the southern end of the Dnieper, the Soviet high command announced the repulse of a daring Nazi attempt to seize control of the river's mouth by a landing on the Kindurin peninsula, which juts into the Black sea.

More than 1,200 German troops were killed or captured and the remainder of the landing force hurled into the sea in a powerful Soviet counter-attack, the communique said.

Hun Line Threatened

The Nazis' whole White Russian line threatened to collapse as Russian forces plunged to within eight miles of Rogachev, just north of Zlobin, further narrowing the escape corridor through which thousands of German troops are attempting to reach the White Russian capital of Minsk.

Still farther north, other Russian forces beat down Nazi counter-offenses to push to within 20 miles southeast of Mogilev, capture of which would cut off German forces in the Gomel-Zlobin corridor from those on the central front based at Orsha and Vitebsk.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Fifth Air Force was revealed today to have pounded a 50-mile stretch of invasion-threatened coastline at the western end of New Britain in a furious series of air blows highlighted by a blistering attack against Japan's Cape Gloucester air and supply base.

Smashing at the strategic enemy stronghold Saturday for the second consecutive day, twin-motored and four-engine Allied bombers rained 63 tons of bombs on the airdrome and adjacent installations, MacArthur's headquarters announced.

Japs Fought

After heaping new destruction on top of the heavy damage wrought by 179 tons of explosives poured on Gloucester in the previous attack, the bombers ranged up and down the coast from Gloucester to Rein Bay, 50 miles to the north, silencing gun positions and igniting fires in enemy supply dumps.

On Bougainville, American torpedo and divebombers dropped 94 tons of explosives on Jap installations and supply lines in support of U. S. Marines and army troops extending their Empress Augusta Bay bridgehead.

Three and probably six Japanese torpedo and divebombers were destroyed when the enemy attempted to attack American ships in Empress Augusta bay, said the communique.

Australian jungle troops on New Guinea meanwhile beat down bitter Jap opposition to continue their campaign to wipe out enemy resistance on the Hun peninsula. Three fierce Jap counter-attacks were smashed near Warea, Jap jungle outpost ten miles northwest of Finschhafen.

Allied night reconnaissance bombers, said the communique, possibly damaged an 8,000-ton Jap transport in the Bismarck sea, off New Britain, and bombed and strafed a 1,500-ton merchantman off New Guinea.

OWNERS OF OLD FURS URGED TO MAKE DONATION

Pickaway county Red Cross is urging contribution of discarded furs which will be sent, as soon as a shipment is collected, to the War Emergency Board of the fur industry.

Furs contributed by persons throughout the nation are sent to the fur industry board where they are used to make fur vests for members of the Merchant Marine.

At present, the Red Cross has three pieces of furs on hand, but many more are sought so a shipment can be put into the mails before the end of this week.

The fur industry board has developed more than 30,000 vests to date, and the work will continue until victory.

The average number of vests needed is 25 for each ship, and with Uncle Sam putting the greatest merchant fleet in the world into action the need for fur-lined vests is growing daily.

INONU GREETED ALLIED CHIEFS

While said President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill met Turkish President Inonu Saturday afternoon. The Berlin account said Turkish sources do not expect an official communique on the course of the Allied-Turkish conversations to be issued before Wednesday or Thursday.

The Berne radio quoted "leading political circles in Ankara" as confirming the German report that Inonu has gone to Cairo to meet President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill, apparently to discuss Turkey's anticipated entrance into the war on the Allied side.

An official Cairo announcement revealed for the first time that the momentous "Crush Japan" conference took place in the Hotel Menahouse, at the foot of the pyramids and the Sphinx, at Cairo's outskirts.

President Advises Fighters America is Proud Of World War Roles

and collectively, that all of you are part of that purpose—all of you who are here today and all of you who are farther south in Iran. You can always remember that you have taken a very necessary, a very useful part in winning the war."

Describing his meeting with Yank troops in Iran as a symbol of the global aspect of World War II, the President remarked:

"If you had said to me, or I to you, three years ago that we would meet in Iran today, we would probably have said that we were completely crazy."

"When I woke up at this camp and looked out, I thought I was back in Arizona or New Mexico. Then, suddenly, I realized how far away from home we were."

Proud America

"America," he declared, "is proud of what you are doing at this distant place. I wish great numbers of our people could see this work of getting necessary equipment and supplies through to our ally, who has had very heavy losses but who is licking the Nazi hordes."

In his parting words, the President said:

"So I am on my way home. I wish I could take all of you with me. The people at home know what you are doing and how well you are doing it. They are proud of you. All I can say is: may you get back home to our good America just as soon as you can. Goodbye and good luck!"

The President then went to the camp hospital, where he delivered substantially the same address, but added:

"I know you wish to get out of the hospital as soon as possible and come back to the United States just as fast as we lick the Nazis."

"I have had successful conferences with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill, laying plans as far as we can to make it unnecessary to have Americans in Iran again just as long as we and our children live."

"I think that is worth fighting for—even being sick for—in Iran."

TO CLOSE COURT STREET

Police Chief W. F. McCrady said Monday that Court street will be closed Tuesday evening for the Honor Roll board dedication with no cars permitted between Franklin and Mound streets. No cars can remain in that space during the ceremony, the chief said, police having instructions to keep them out.

POINTS - FOR - FAT PLAN GOES INTO EFFECT DEC. 13

The new OPA-sponsored points-for-fat plan will become effective December 13 throughout the nation.

Under the plan housewives will receive one brown ration point for each one-half pound of salvage kitchen fat delivered to retailers.

OPA announced that in addition to ration points salvage gatherers will continue to receive the ceiling price of four cents a pound for used fats.

KISKA SEEN AS INVASION ROUTE

layman can observe by a look at a map. One is the route through Honolulu, and this route was protected when the Japanese were routed at Midway.

"The other is the southwestern route through Australia and the Southwest Pacific; and in this area we have made steady progress from the Solomons into New Guinea and this general area."

In addition, the secretary said other possibilities for attack were through the Indian ocean, Burma, Thailand, and any portion of the Netherlands East Indies. Knox asserted any of these possibilities could be exploited in coordination with the aid of China.

"Before another year has passed, it is reasonable to expect that we will have seen considerable United Nations action in one or more of these general areas, and it is not too much to assume that our positions will have been considerably bettered thereby."

The secretary reiterated that the American navy now is by far the largest in all history, but he warned:

"It is clearly realized that 1944 might well produce some of the heaviest naval fighting this war has yet seen, for many major elements of the Jap fleet have not yet seen action."

"It is realized that 1944 might well bring heavy losses and some reverses. But, on the whole, it is believed that 1944 will find the United States naval service—the Navy, the Marine corps and the Coast Guard—sailing into a number of ports of call on the long voyage to total victory."

of a "not guilty by reason of insanity" plea when he waived examination and was bound to the grand jury. He remains in the Fayette county jail without bond, bond not being permitted in Ohio in capital cases.

Just where authorities will look for the death gun is not known since their searches on the Collett farm have been fruitless.

Metal detectors, used to find articles of metal hidden under the ground, were used Saturday in a minute search of the Collett farm. While efforts to find the gun have not been successful, Icmehover and other authorities are continuing their search since a death weapon is important evidence in a murder trial.

An "important development" announced as ready to break in the murder investigation has not yet been made known. Prosecutor Hill said Saturday night that a break had been obtained, but the Fayette county district is still in the dark concerning its nature.

COLUMBUS AUTO IN COLLISION WITH STATE CAR

Front end of the automobile of George Schiff, 31, of 674 Morrell avenue, Columbus, was damaged at 10:15 a. m. Monday in a collision with a state automobile driven by Robert Herron, 62, of Chillicothe. Both cars were going north when the accident happened in North Court street near Wilson avenue.

Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious, who investigated, said Herron had slowed down to pick up a passenger when Schiff's car slid on wet pavement and hit the rear of the state car. The Herron-operated auto was not damaged.

Neither driver was hurt.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS

Two substitute teachers are serving Monday in Washington township school. Superintendent George McDowell said Miss Vera Fields, a senior at Capital university, is teaching commercial and English as a substitute for Mrs. Hazel Cunningham, who is off duty for several days, and Mrs. Harold Deffenbaugh of Circleville is teaching first and second grades in the same school as a substitute for Mrs. Nancy Retzer who is ill.

PUT HOPE IN RAIN

Farm folk and city residents, too, whose wells have dried up during the continuous dry spell, were hopeful Monday that showers which started early in the morning would increase in size and continue for several days. The Monday rain was light, but there were indications, weather observers said, that more rain would fall during the next 48 hours.

CURTISS - WRIGHT UNION STRIKE VOTE DELAYED

COLUMBUS, Dec. 6—A strike vote by Curtiss-Wright union production workers was delayed today after it was learned the union's demand for wage increases probably will be voted on by the National War Labor Board in Washington on Wednesday.

Following a union executive board meeting, Richard Nebcour, vice president of Curtiss Local 927, United Automobile Workers (CIO), announced that the strike vote as authorized by the membership last Monday and Tuesday would be delayed.

According to Nebcour, several factors have come up in the last two days to postpone the vote. He said he talked to W. S. Hutchinson, union president, who has been in Washington in connection with the case before the WLB.

Hutchinson contended that the Curtiss-Wright case, pending before the WLB for the last year, is expected to come to a vote before the board Wednesday, Nebcour said.

However, Nebcour added, the executive board will complete drafting the strike vote declaration and hold it in abeyance until Wednesday. If no WLB decision is reached by then, the board will file the strike vote action with the War Labor Board and the secretary of labor as required under the Smith-Connally act.

The first big movement came immediately after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. Within 16 hours the company assembled 378 sleeping cars from a radius of 300 miles to transport men and officers from the Great Lakes naval training station.

CIVILIZED OR MECHANIZED?

VIEWING news pictures of the present fighting equipment of the Allied nations, in the daily papers and on the screen, even the most unimaginative American must thrill at the immensity and power of modern war and its instruments. Also at the incredible speed with which this nation has marshalled its power. Almost overnight we have changed our whole economy from peace to war, filling the air with powerful planes and the sea with powerful ships.

It is a four-dimensional war, with mechanical and military might operating in the upper air, on land, on the sea, and with scores of devices never used in any previous war.

It affects about half of the world's people directly and the rest indirectly. There is every reason to believe that when it is over, things will never again be the same. The old ways of life that we thought were changed so much by the last war are being changed more fundamentally now.

For good or ill, the civilization into which the nations emerge at the close of this conflict will be equipped with more power and knowledge than any former age. But these are blessings only as they are used for enlightened and humane purposes. Shall they be used to keep the world an armed camp? Or to bottle up its wealth for a few chosen groups? Or to concentrate on material power instead of developing the finer qualities of men and women? Shall we grow truly civilized, or merely mechanized?

THE FIRST NAZI

THE original Nazi is gone. Count Ernst zu Reventlow, dead at 74, was preaching anti-Semitism and a ruthless bigger Germany when Hitler was still painting houses. Some people might have been mild and philosophical, even when presenting such extreme ideas; but not Reventlow. Always noisy, violent and fiercely intolerant, he was too extreme even for the Kaiser. Reventlow spread Nazi ideas long before the Nazis, and might well have expected high office when they came to power.

He did not get it, and found himself forgotten by the regime he helped to found. He died while Germany was toppling and proving to all with eyes to see that his doctrines were fatal to his country.

If President Roosevelt did not run again, what would some people do without Roosevelt stories?

The war cannot be won without a deep gouge in the American pocketbook.

Why could not rationing be extended to cold weather? Then a cold day in December would mean one less later on.

LONDON HOLDS FIRE

WASHINGTON — Former Governor Alf Landon of Kansas had ample opportunity to open up on Wendell Willkie, had he been so minded, at his closed-door meeting with freshmen GOP congressmen. However, Landon diplomatically held his fire, much to the disappointment of anti-Willkieites present.

Representative Howard Buffett of Nebraska blew the whistle on Willkie at the very start of the meeting, introducing Landon as "a man who was neither a Socialist nor a Democrat before he received the Republican presidential nomination, nor a New Dealer or bomber traveller afterward."

Landon first read a prepared and rather dull diatribe denouncing New Deal domestic policies and warning Republicans against endorsing Roosevelt's Soviet-collaboration "until we know all the facts about the Moscow conference." Having finished this, he was peppered with provocative questions about Willkie.

Representative Louis Ebenezer Miller of Missouri inquired if Landon "ever intended to write a travelogue." The Kansan grinned this one off. He answered most other questions regarding Willkie in monosyllables and refused to mention Willkie by name at any time. However, he uncorked one indirect blast when asked if anyone had the Republican nomination "in the bag," a claim Willkie reportedly made when he addressed the GOP freshmen some weeks back.

"That's perfectly absurd, and I don't care who said it," Landon replied. "No one can say at this time who will be the party nominee in 1944."

ALMOST SECRETARY OF WAR

Landon was his usual colorless self and the meeting dragged badly in spots. However, all ears pricked up when the Kansan gave an inside account of how he was "almost appointed" secretary of war during the 1940 campaign.

He had received a feeler on the cabinet appointment from Frank Altschul of New York, relative of former Governor Lehman. When Landon evinced interest, Altschul, according to Landon, arranged a White House luncheon at which the matter was to be talked over. However, Landon chose this moment to issue a public blast against a third term for Roosevelt and the luncheon was called off.

This was in June, 1940, shortly before Frank Knox was named secretary of the navy and Henry Stimson became secretary of war. According to Landon, Knox authorized him to issue a statement stating that both he and Landon would refuse cabinet appointments.

"I told Frank Knox that he should make his own statement," Landon revealed. "I had called a press conference for 3:30 in the afternoon to make my announcement and suggested to Knox that he meet the press at 4."

At the last minute, Knox changed his mind. Later, he told Landon that he was convinced Roosevelt wouldn't run for a third term. According to Landon, Knox asked the President bluntly if he would run again. "My nerves wouldn't stand it," the President told Knox, according to Landon.

"The President phoned me long-distance when I returned to Kansas and apologized for cancelling the luncheon," Landon.

Capitol Restaurant Nicks Taxpayers $85,000 a Year

Congressmen Subsidize Own Hearty, Low-Priced Lunches

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Why not ask for a government subsidy for your own dining room? In this you will be following the lead of congress. Of the same congress who in the house prohibited food subsidies by a 275-117 vote.

Those lucky legislators who are permitted by law to vote themselves special privileges are eating mightily well in the restaurants of the capitol during these food shortage days. Frightening prices and turkey scarcities didn't mean a thing to their Thanksgiving pocketbooks.

For example, on the day before Thanksgiving when you and I were wrestling with butchers and personal purse strings in order to snare some kind of a bird with which to celebrate our gratitude at being alive, members of congress were offered in their capitol restaurants a perfectly luscious meal for virtually nothing at all.

Read the menu: "Roast Turkey with Giblet Gravy, Canned Yams, Carrots and Peas, Old Fashioned Cranberry Sauce, Cornbread or Hot Rolls and Butter, Choice of Pineapple Upside-down Cake, Pie or Ice Cream for Dessert. Coffee." Plus another cup of coffee and another pat of butter if requested.

And the price for this Pilgrim Fathers feast? Just 60 cents! How did they do it? How? Very simple. As I have already indicated, they voted themselves a food subsidy, call it an appropriation if you prefer, of $85,000 last year. This $85,000 was named "the deficiency." It was needed for running the house and senate restaurants. It was the difference between what congressmen pay for their meals and what the meals cost the government.

Quite a difference, you say. Well, rather, especially when you think of the deficiency that lurks from time to time in the cost of your

Casual Use Of Sulfas May Lead To Disaster

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"I HAVE lived through a good many medical fads," said my old friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs. "And I have come to the conclusion that a scientific physician is a real rarity. Most of them practice by ear. They hear about something at a lunch table and begin to use it."

"My first fad was the strychnine fad. When I started to practice medicine strychnine was the drug every doctor had to give every patient. What has become of that? I haven't heard of a dose of strychnine being given for 20 years."

"Then there was allergy, then the endocrines, then vitamins, and now it is the sulfas drugs."

Importance of Examination

"Not that these things are not all right in their place. We need vitamins and most of us get enough in our food. But to dish out a handful of vitamin tablets to anybody whether they have arthritis or pyorrhea or had eye-sight without making any kind of examination or considering what would be wise for the patient is neither science or sense."

"The same thing is happening with the sulfas drugs. They are very valuable, even magical, in their action on certain diseases. But the number of those diseases is limited. And to use them any which way for any old thing is not only unfair to the patient, but may be downright dangerous."

"One of the latest ways I notice they are using them is as a nasal spray. One report says this method is good in certain forms of chronic sinus disease. And another that the sprays are good for the common cold. Other reports say they are no good for any of these things. All the reports are from equally eminent men."

"What can you believe? Perhaps they are good for certain forms of chronic sinus disease. The chances that they would be any good for the common cold are very faint, because the cold is due to a virus."

"Also, they may be dangerous. I see a report of a woman who self-dosed herself over a period of weeks with sulfathiazole ointment, applying it to a fissure at the corner of her nose. She died and it was found she had sulfathiazole crystals all through her kidneys."

"Then I see that use of sulfathiazole tablets is helpful in pyorrhea. Also in Vincent's infection of the tonsils and so-called trench mouth, which is really Vincent's infection, a form of pyorrhea. There may be more sense in that and one is glad to see careful experiments carried on, but I would not rush into such practice until it is better established."

"They are being used also in dermatology—in impetigo and other pus infections, and I have my friend, Dr. Harold Cole's, in Cleveland, word for their efficiency in such conditions and his word is good enough for me."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. T. K.: What are therapeutic tubes which are described as containing radium bearing salts and cause the blood to take on more oxygen?

Answer: There is nothing more dangerous than the indiscriminate use of radium salts. Recall the cases of the watch dial workers who painted luminescent figures on watch dials, moistening the brush on their tongues. They all died of radium deaths.

R. R.: I have a burning sensation in my tongue, stomach and intestines. What is the cause and treatment of this?

Answer: It might be caused by a number of things, one of which is anemia, and one of which is vitamin deficiency. You should have a careful examination as most of these things are very easy to cure.

During the year 1792 and part of 1793, Beethoven was the unsatisfactory pupil of the noted composer, Joseph Haydn.

own meals and your ability to pay for them comfortably. The congressional food difference, or deficiency, or subsidy, say it as you will, may be turned into a startling problem in arithmetic. Admitting that in an era of billions, $85,000 is a mere two-bits, let's work the problem out thoughtfully.

Divide the $85,000 by the 531 members of congress. You have a $160 a year food subsidy for each member. It's only lunch money, too. For lunch is the only meal members of congress eat in their capitol restaurants.

Suppose every person in the United States said: "There is a deficiency in my kitchen accounts. I also need $160 a year to balance my food books."

Very well, then, multiply $160 by the 130,000,000 citizens of the United States and you have a nice total of $20,800,000,000. Here's a figure even a 1944 thinker in billions can understand. Here's a piece of inflation to conjure with.

I don't say that everyone of the 130,000,000 Americans should demand that the government give him annual lunch money of $160. Yet I do think that the taxpayer who is paying for the subsidizing of the congressional luncheon is entitled to turn the matter over in his mind now and then. Especially on such occasions as he feels too lean in both waistline and pocketbook.

Maybe all of us had better get on quick eating terms with those capitol luncheons. It would almost be worth the trouble of being elected to congress to be able to get a bowl of good, hot soup, while the war is on, for 10 cents.

Or old-fashioned beef stew, family style, with big hunks of real meat, buttered egg noodles, green peas and choice of tea, coffee or milk for 60 cents.

Or a "Chef's Special A"—Fresh Mississippi shrimp, seafood style, with steamed rice, coffee, tea or milk and that extra pat of butter for a mere 35 cents.

I often eat in the capitol restaurants because I am a member of the press, sometimes because I am a fortunate guest. On Tuesday I had tenderloin steak sandwich there with french fried potatoes, cold slaw and that extra cup of coffee for 50 cents.

Milk is never over 5 cents a glass in the capitol. A pot of cocoa is 15 cents. And oyster stew with milk is 35 cents. With beautiful thick cream the stew is 50 cents.

I suppose I'm merely jealous of the congressional right to vote itself special privileges or subsidies while voting down subsidies for other people.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

IT WAS five hours since the telegram had come, telling that Jim was missing. Five terrible hours, with Andrea sitting there in the wicker rocker in Beth's room, staring silently into space, her eyes dark pools with deep shadows in the yellowish pallor of her face. No color came and went under her olive-tinted skin. No light touched her eyes. No movement disturbed her usually animated figure. Not a tear coursed down her cheeks.

Beth thought, "If only she would cry or rant, or do anything, I could bear it."

Within her, her heart hurt. Not for Jim. That would come later when she realized what the telegram meant. It would have only one meaning for her. Her heart hurt for Andrea, for now she could not remember Andrea's resiliency. It seemed to her that Andrea would sit there forever in that frozen pose, arms tensely flat on the chair arms, her feet close together. Only the fits of trembling that seized her body gave indication that she was not in a trance.

Someone came to the door and knocked gently.

"Send them away," Andrea said. "I know how they feel, but there isn't anything they can do for me. There isn't anything anybody can do."

"I wish—"

"I know," Andrea said in a somnolent voice. "You wish you could do something. You've been saying that all evening. Just let me stay here with you."

Her eyes fixed again on a point across the room. Beth picked up her knitting but, for all that she was aware of what she was doing, she might have been doing anything else.

After a little while, Andrea said, "Stop that, Beth. Those needles clicking. I can't stand it."

Beth put down her knitting and her eyes fell on the telegram on the table under the lamp. She could see the words burning through the faded page, "Missing in action."

"Andy, won't you let me call the doctor?"

Andrea shrank back into the chair and for an instant something leaped into her eyes. "No," she said. "I don't need any doctor. Can't you just let me alone?"

"He could give you a bromide. Something to make you sleep. You'll be ill if you keep his up. Illness," she added, hoping an ounce of practicality would help. "Is a luxury a working girl cannot afford."

"Now, I'll have to go on working, won't I? It won't be enough, gently she pulled the blanket up to Andrea's chin, lowered the shades to keep out the morning light and wrote a little note to tell Andrea that she would call the doctor, and that she would hurry home as soon as she could."

She was determined that she would have the doctor that day if Andrea were not better when she came home. If she was responsible for her, Andrea's nerves were not going to pieces.

But Andrea would have no doctor when Beth came home and found her still in bed. "My back aches," she said. "And I can't eat, but that doesn't mean my health is anything to worry about."

Beth brought her dinner up on a tray and she ate her fruit cup, a generous slice of meat pie, a baked potato and a dish of ice cream.

ASHVILLE

Members of Palmetto Lodge 513, Knights of Pythias, are requested to be present promptly at 8:00 p. m. Wednesday, December 8, for the annual election of officers.

In a letter dated December 1, 1943, F. H. Waring, chief engineer in the State Department of Health, commended the Board of Public Affairs and the water-works superintendent, M. C. Scott, for their prompt action in clearing up recent difficulties in Ashville. A chlorine machine has been promptly secured and placed in operation and the chlorinated water has been systematically drawn throughout the distributing system. Four water samples collected by M. C. Scott at various locations at Ashville on November 25, indicate the water to be of satisfactory sanitary quality. "I am pleased at this time to give the Ashville water supply a clean bill of health," These excerpts from Mr. Waring's letter give Ashville just cause to be proud of its water-distilling system, which always ranks among the best-kept in the state. The grounds and buildings which house the pumps and pumping machinery form one of the beauty spots of Ashville, and are a tribute to the care given them by the local superintendent of water-works, M. C. Scott.

The Ashville Community Club will be in session Tuesday, December 7, at the club room. The meeting will get under way at 8 p. m. All members are urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young and daughter, Cindy, were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Irwin.

Saturday evening the DeSota sedan owned by Shelby McNeal of Columbus and driven by James McNeal collided with Leroy Cromley's Dodge sedan which was parked on West Main street. The impact drove the Cromley car several feet down the street and over the curb. James McNeal states that he was blinded by the lights from a car which pulled out from Jefferson avenue and did not see the parked car until too late to stop. Both automobiles were badly damaged. James McNeal who was the only occupant suffered a slight shoulder injury. Sheriff Charles Radcliff investigated the accident.

The OPA recently issued a statement with intent to shame complainers about rationing. It tells us that our forefathers did without sugar until the 13th century, without buttered bread until the 15th, without coffee, tea, and soap until the 17th, and without gas, matches, and electricity until the 19th. We might add that they also did without the OPA. However, we agree with the OPA that almost all our complaining about rationing is unjustified and that most of us have not given up anything which we really need.

Dale Millar, Ashville high school athlete, was painfully injured Sunday afternoon by a fall from a horse which he was riding. Dale was treated by Dr. R. S. Hosler and removed to a Columbus hospital for further x-rays. No broken bones were found, and recovery should be rapid.

Miss Dorothy Jenkins And Robert Dick Wed

Just the Gift for him DAD Mother Her brother

IF THAT PERSON for whom you find it difficult to buy a gift, owns a car—The Western Auto Associate store has quite an array of heaters. Small heaters priced as low as $4.98 and larger ones that sell up to $19.95. They are Hot Wave Auto Heaters. They are guaranteed to give satisfactory heat at low cost.

PEACEFUL looking and sleep invoking is the little white swan on the head of the old fashioned play crib for the little tots at Harpster and Yost Hardware. It is made of wood and covered with imitation leather in a delf blue with white braid around the edge, simulating beading which gives it that antique look. They have a large assortment of children's toys.

THE TINY SWEET smelling Mader's Candy Shop at 129 N. Court street, has a complete line of home-made hard candy, also pipes, smoking tobacco and tobacco pouches. Gifts for the hard to please.

HOSTESSES who look forward to informal entertaining this 'Winter will do well to stop into Stone's Grill for a supply of Good Wine—it's a perfect starter for the holiday entertaining. No host or hostess can feel that their dinner party is complete if they have neglected to serve it. We have a complete stock of Champagne, Burgundy, Port, Sherry, Claret, Muscatel and Tokay.

TIME WAS WHEN the most desirable Christmas gift was "hand made." W. T. Grant Co. has a beautiful array of dainty new prints that would make matching aprons for mother and daughter. Dainty dots, flowers and designs in pastels and also some more practical shades. Tiny tots' dresses are easily made and certainly make acceptable gifts.

SUGAR AND SPICE and everything nice goes into the making of the fruit cakes that are for sale this year at Wallace's Bakery. They are made in one, two and three pound cakes. Daintily wrapped they make delightful gifts. Ingredients for these cakes are now difficult to get for the home maker so leave your order for your cakes early. They are priced at 70c per pound.

FIRST PERSON possessive — it may not tend to the best comradeship but if you really need a new chair why not get a Velour tilt back chair and ottoman at $41.50 at the R & R Furniture Co. and make it dad's gift. He'll appreciate it so give it to him.

"MY MUSICIANS dress well," says a popular band leader, "they all read Esquire." That magazine is recognized as authority on men's clothes and in Esquire you will see the "best dressed men" wearing Arrow shirts, ties, shorts and robes. The clothes bearing the Arrow trade mark are recognized as being perfectly made and fitted. Material of finest quality and workmanship impeccable. For your men folks gift go to Caddy Miller Hat Shop.

THE TOP FLIGHT gift in jewelry this year would be a birthstone ring. If you know the birthdate and you show your thoughtfulness and your gift is the more appreciative. Massive modern settings for men, neat and beautiful ones for women, $18.50 up, at L. M. Butch Co., jewelers.

NEXT SUMMER and canning season seems a long way off, but remember how hard it was to get cookers for the preservation of that surplus Victory Garden produce last Summer? Mr. Kochheiser of the hardware store of that name, announces that he now has a supply of Burpe, 7-quart pressure cookers at $15.99. They have the pressure gauge and are made of blue and white enamel. What could be a nicer gift for the home maker.

Tiger Cagers Invade Upper Arlington And London High Floors

Circleville high Tigers, unable to score a victory in either of their first two starts, will be on the road for a pair of encounters this week. Coach Roy Black's boys move to Upper Arlington Wednesday evening and travel to London Friday evening. Both opponents are strong ones.

Dave Mader, out of action since the Wilmington football game when he suffered a wrist fracture on the last play of the game, has rejoined the squad and will be in action as soon as his wrist is strong enough. He was in uniform last Friday, but was not used.

Coach Black has indicated that he will probably start the same quintet which was used against Lancaster and Greenfield, it including Sims, Anderson, Dade, Lovenshimer and Valentine, although Freck Heath's showing against Greenfield may win him a starting role.

Reserve teams are scheduled to accompany the varsity on both trips.

REDSKIN HOPES FOR TITLE HIT BY GIANT CREW

Washington Must Win Next Sunday To Enter Playoff For Pro Grid Honors

By International News Service
The Washington Redskins who had expected to coast into the Eastern division championship of the national football league were not even certain today they would be in the play-off for the national title.

Victims of a 14 to 10 upset by the Giants before 51,308 unbelieving Polo grounds patrons in New York yesterday, the Redskins still have to play the Giants again next Sunday in Washington.

Should the Giants pour it on again, that would mean a tie with New York for the Eastern division leadership and a play-off to determine which of the two teams will come to Chicago for the league championship game in Wrigley field against the Chicago Bears, western division leaders.

The title game is scheduled for December 19, but if the Giants and Redskins are compelled to play off a tie the championship will be decided a week later.

While the Giants were defeating the Redskins, the Green Bay Packers were beating the Phil-Pitt Eagles at Philadelphia, 38 to 28, with Don Hutson offsetting an Eagle rally by catching two touchdowns in the final period. Hutson announced it was his last pro game.

The Giants were trailing the Redskins in the last four minutes at New York 7 to 10 when Bill Paschal, 195-pound rookie from Georgia Tech, broke through the Washington line and started a 54-yard sprint for the goal line which he achieved in spite of the desperate efforts of Sammy Baugh to overtake him. Ward Cuff kicked the extra point.

Baugh completed 16 out of 27 passes for 223 yards to move ahead of Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears in the league passing standards, but except for the Redskins' one touchdown drive most of Sammy's passes were short ones.

Bob Masterson kicked a field goal for the Redskins near the end of the first period, then Andy Farkas ploughed over from the 1-yard line in the third after a 63-yard march down the field. Masterson making the conversion Paschal in the same period broke away for gains of 26 and 16 yards before going over from the 1-yard line for the Giants. Cuff kicked the extra point.

This left the Giants trailing only three points and Paschal eliminated this deficiency in the final period.

The Packers' victory was witnessed by 34,294 fans, the largest crowd ever to attend a professional football game in Philadelphia. Hutson, besides catching the two touchdowns passes, kicked a field goal and five points after touchdown, running his season's total to 117 points.

Jack Hinkle, Phil-Pitt right half, took the league leadership for ground gaining away from Harry Clark of the Chicago Bears with his 59 yards for a year's total of 571 against Clark's 556.

Hinkle made one of the Eagles' touchdowns, Tony Bova two and Ernie Steele one.

Besides Hutson's touchdowns, others were made for the Packers by Tony Canadeo, Lou Brock and Irv Comp.

It costs approximately $15,000 to fire nine of the big guns of a U. S. battleship. Their range is from 15 to 20 miles.

They have the pressure gauge and are made of blue and white enamel. What could be a nicer gift for the home maker.

Tiger Cagers Invade Upper Arlington And London High Floors

Circleville high Tigers, unable to score a victory in either of their first two starts, will be on the road for a pair of encounters this week. Coach Roy Black's boys move to Upper Arlington Wednesday evening and travel to London Friday evening. Both opponents are strong ones.

Dave Mader, out of action since the Wilmington football game when he suffered a wrist fracture on the last play of the game, has rejoined the squad and will be in action as soon as his wrist is strong enough. He was in uniform last Friday, but was not used.

Coach Black has indicated that he will probably start the same quintet which was used against Lancaster and Greenfield, it including Sims, Anderson, Dade, Lovenshimer and Valentine, although Freck Heath's showing against Greenfield may win him a starting role.

Reserve teams are scheduled to accompany the varsity on both trips.

CLEVELAND ACE LEADS BOWLERS IN TITLE MATCH

Joe Norris of Detroit slipped into second place with a half-way total of 2,510, both he and Ward surpassing Nelson Burton of St. Louis who had a swell 1,358 score for his first six games Sunday, but slumped to 1,147 for a total of 2,505 and third place.

Leo Strugarek, Toledo, O., veteran, edged into fourth place with 2,476, just one pin ahead of George Young, New York star, and Vic Battista of Chicago, who were tied at 2,475.

In the special match for $1,000, Johnny Crimmins of Detroit was out in front with 2,536 pins for his first 12 games. Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., had 2,382 and Champion Connie Schweigler of Madison, Wis., the other member of the threesome, 2,218. They have 12 games to go.

REDSKIN HOPES FOR TITLE HIT BY GIANT CREW

Washington Must Win Next Sunday To Enter Playoffs For Pro Grid Honors

By International News Service
The Washington Redskins who had expected to coast into the Eastern division championship of the national football league were not even certain today they would be in the play-off for the national title.

Victims of a 14 to 10 upset by the Giants before 51,308 unbelieving Polo grounds patrons in New York yesterday, the Redskins still have to play the Giants again next Sunday in Washington.

Should the Giants pour it on again, that would mean a tie with New York for the Eastern division leadership and a play-off to determine which of the two teams will come to Chicago for the league championship game in Wrigley field against the Chicago Bears, western division leaders.

The title game is scheduled for December 19, but if the Giants and Redskins are compelled to play off a tie the championship will be decided a week later.

While the Giants were defeating the Redskins, the Green Bay Packers were beating the Philadelphia Eagles at Philadelphia, 38 to 28, with Don Hutson offsetting an Eagle rally by catching two touchdowns in the final period. Hutson announced it was his last pro game.

The Giants were trailing the Redskins in the last four minutes at New York 7 to 10 when Bill Paschal, 195-pound rookie from Georgia Tech, broke through the Washington line and staged a 54-yard sprint for the goal line which he achieved in spite of the desperate efforts of Sammy Baugh to overtake him. Ward Cuff kicked the extra point.

Baugh completed 16 out of 27 passes for 223 yards to move ahead of Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears in the league passing standards, but except for the Redskins' one touchdown drive most of Sammy's passes were short ones.

Bob Masterson kicked a field goal for the Redskins near the end of the first period, then Andy Farkas ploughed over from the 1-yard line in the third after a 63-yard march down the field, Masterson making the conversion. Paschal in the same period broke away for gains of 26 and 16 yards before going over from the 1-yard line for the Giants. Cuff kicked the extra point.

This left the Giants trailing only three points and Paschal eliminated this deficiency in the final period.

The Packers' victory was witnessed by 34,294 fans, the largest crowd ever to attend a professional football game in Philadelphia. Hutson, besides catching the two touchdowns, kicked a field goal and five points after touchdown, running his season's total to 117 points.

Jack Hinkle, Phil-Pitt right half, took the league leadership for ground gaining away from Harry Clark of the Chicago Bears with his 59 yards for a year's total of 571 against Clark's 556.

Hinkle made one of the Eagles' touchdowns, Tony Bova two and Ernie Steele one.

Besides Hutson's touchdowns, others were made for the Packers by Tony Canadeo, Lou Brock and Irv Comp.

Pickaway Farmers Told To Increase Production In 1944

VARIOUS CROP GOALS SET AT STATE SESSION

Soybeans, Clovers, Barley Truck, Sweet Corn, Hens, Turkey Needs Grow

SLASH IN PORK ASKED

Limited Supply Of Feed Forces Reduction In Hog Production

Pickaway county farmers, rapidly nearing the conclusion of a year which saw large output of all types of farm produce to help in the nation's war effort, were informed Monday by the Pickaway county War Board and the A.A.A. that they will be expected to produce even greater supplies of vital goods during the next year.

Figures calling for boosts in production were disclosed by local agricultural leaders following a Columbus conference at which time all phases of the 1944 program were discussed. Farm machinery needs were talked and the labor question was also discussed by state agricultural chiefs.

While the general trend is for increases, farm officials are asking most Ohio counties to cut down on their pork production. Pickaway county is asked to reduce its number of hogs farrowing in the Spring to 83 percent of the 1943 total, and to 81 percent of the hogs farrowing in the Fall of 1944.

The same percentages of reduction are prevalent over all of the state.

Feed Limited
"This sizeable decline," the AAA pointed out, "is made necessary by the limited supplies of feed available for the 1944 feeding season."

The county is asked to boost its corn output by three percent over 1943 when 72,567 acres were estimated to have been planted. This number was three percent ahead of the proposed 1943 goal.

Declaring that soybeans are badly needed due to increased demand for oil and protein feed, the county has been asked to produce six percent more than 1943. The same increase is also prevalent through the state.

Other suggested goals for various crops and livestock for Pickaway county farmers follow:

Oats: 87 percent of 1943, the War Food Administration pointing out that the increased acreage for corn and soybeans is to be offset by the recommended decrease in the acreage of oats for grain which usually give less return per acre in feed value in Ohio.

Barley: 115 percent of 1943.

Rye for grain: 88 percent.

Potatoes: 100 percent.

All tame hay harvested: 99 percent.

Alfalfa seed: 300 percent, increased need for all legume seeds being stressed.

Red clover seed: 195 percent.

Alsike clover seed: 400 percent.

Sweet clover seed: 933 percent.

Timothy seed: 80 percent.

Truck crops for market: 105 percent.

Peas: 100 percent.

Snap beans: 110 percent.

Sweet corn: 106 percent.

Tomatoes: 100 percent.

Cows to be milked in 1944: 100 percent of 1943.

Hens and pullets: 113 percent of 1943.

Chickens raised in 1944: 99 percent.

Broilers in 1944: 80 percent.

Turkeys raised in 1944: 102 percent.

PROTECTING THE PRESIDENT ABROAD

The only people in the U. S. A. who are really made unhappy by the President's travels—especially overseas—are the Secret Service.

They spend sleepless nights until he comes home again, worried that something may happen.

On last Winter's overseas junket to Casablanca, an extraordinary measure of protection was taken. Nothing like it has ever been seen in the history of the world. A great armada of ships of all kinds, mostly fighting ships, was assembled near the bulge of Brazil, and also near the bulge of West Africa. The ships moved out along the path which the President was to follow and practically covered every square mile of the Atlantic at this narrow crossing.

The President himself was flying overhead in a Pan American clipper, and the purpose of the ships was to form what the Navy called a "net" of protection. It was to serve the President as the net in the circus serves the trapeze artists. If the President's plane were forced down into the sea, no matter where, there would be at least one ship at that spot to rescue him.

No such plan was used on his latest trip, however. The mode of protection cannot now be revealed, but when the story is told, it will show an entirely different strategy.

The police report includes: Charles Locklear, 38, and Esther New, 27, both giving Columbus as their residences, arrested at 4 a. m. Sunday in the American hotel where they were erroneously registered as man and wife. Police said they will probably be charged with false registration. Locklear had used the name of Smith.

The following persons cited for intoxication or disorderly conduct: Amos Lemaster, 33, Stoutsville, 100 bond; Ashley Smith, 17, 716 South Washington street, charged with intoxication and held for investigation; Stanley Goodman, 48, York street, $10 bond; John Morgan, 49, Darbyville, held for intoxication; John Pennell, 63, Chillicothe, held for intoxication and pandering; Mrs. Fannie Haley, 36, Watt street, $10 bond for intoxication.

Others who left money at the police station were Homer Lowery and T. K. Johnson, both of whom were freed Saturday after posting $100 bond each for driving when intoxicated, and Ned Wilson, Greenfield, who paid $1 for illegal parking.

Two men arrested by the state highway patrol were fined Sunday by Squire B. T. Hedges. They were Raymond M. Cramblitt, 32, of South Bloomfield, fined $100 and costs for driving when intoxicated, and Harry George Clifton, Muhlenberg township, fined $15 and costs for operating a car without a driver's license. Both went to jail in default of payment.

Pickaway Farmers Told To Increase Production In 1944

VARIOUS CROP GOALS SET AT STATE SESSION

Soybeans, Clovers, Barley

SLASH IN PORK ASKED

Limited Supply Of Feed
Forces Reduction In
Hog Production

Pickaway county farmers, rapidly nearing the conclusion of a year which saw large output of all types of farm produce to help in the nation's war effort, were informed Monday by the Pickaway county War Board and the A.A.A. that they will be expected to produce even greater supplies of vital goods during the next year.

Figures calling for boosts in production were disclosed by local agricultural leaders following a Columbus conference at which time all phases of the 1944 program were discussed. Farm machinery needs were talked and the labor question was also discussed by state agricultural chiefs.

While the general trend is for increases, farm officials are asking most Ohio counties to cut down on their pork production. Pickaway county is asked to reduce its number of hogs farrowing in the Spring to 83 percent of the 1943 total, and to 81 percent of the hogs farrowing in the Fall of 1944.

The same percentages of reduction are prevalent over all of the state.

Feed Limited
"This sizeable decline," the AAA pointed out, "is made necessary by the limited supplies of feed available for the 1944 feeding season."

The county is asked to boost its corn output by three percent over 1943 when 72,567 acres were estimated to have been planted. This number was three percent ahead of the proposed 1943 goal.

Declaring that soybeans are badly needed due to increased demand for oil and protein feed, the county has been asked to produce six percent more than 1943. The same increase is also prevalent through the state.

Other suggested goals for various crops and livestock for Pickaway county farmers follow:

Oats: 87 percent of 1943, the War Food Administration pointing out that the increased acreage for corn and soybeans is to be offset by the recommended decrease in the acreage of oats for grain which usually give less return per acre in feed value in Ohio.

Barley: 115 percent of 1943.
Rye for grain: 88 percent.
Potatoes: 100 percent.
All time hay harvested: 99 percent.

Alfalfa seed: 300 percent, increased need for all legume seeds being stressed.
Red clover seed: 195 percent.
Ailsie clover seed: 400 percent.
Sweet clover seed: 933 percent.
Timothy seed: 80 percent.
Truck crops for market: 105 percent.

Peas: 100 percent.
Snap beans: 110 percent.
Sweet corn: 106 percent.
Tomatoes: 100 percent.
Cows to be milked in 1944: 100 percent of 1943.
Hens and pullets: 113 percent of 1943.
Chickens raised in 1944: 99 percent.
Broilers in 1944: 80 percent.
Turkeys raised in 1944: 102 percent.

Jaycee members said Monday that their list of names of persons who have given their lives in service numbers seven. It includes Wilbur E. Adkins, George Reeser, Sam Fetherolf, Eugene Countryman, Wade H. Fry, John H. Goodchild, Jr., and Robert A. Mouser. The Junior Chamber of Commerce asks that any persons having knowledge of any others who have lost their lives get in touch with Harold Clifton at Phone No. 75. Only persons living in Pickaway county when they entered service will be listed. Several youths known locally and living near Pickaway county limits have died, among them being Eugene Briggs and Manley Stewart of New Holland, but homes of both were in Fayette county.

CAPTURE CONFIRMED

Private Joseph Hickey, son of William Hickey, West Main street, is included in an official War department list of prisoners of war announced Monday in Washington D. C.

The soldier, who has been serving in Italy, was reported missing several weeks ago. Later, it was confirmed that he was a prisoner of war.

Names of 20 additional Ohioans also held in German prison camps were included in the casualty list.
